Frequently Asked Questions

If I make a Powertrain Protection Plus™ claim, will it affect my insurance?

A No. PPP is a mechanical breakdown warranty that operates separately from your auto insurance, so using it won't impact your premiums.

I am planning to purchase a pre-owned vehicle; can I get Powertrain Protection Plus™?

A Yes! PPP is a great fit for pre-owned vehicles, too. If the original powertrain warranty has expired, your coverage begins right away. If some factory warranty remains, PPP kicks in as soon as that ends.

Is there a deductible for Powertrain Protection Plus™ claims?

A Yes, there's a $100 deductible per repair visit. After that, we cover the rest for any approved repair (up to the contract maximum benefit), so you're not stuck with surprise costs.

What does Powertrain Protection Plus™ cover?

A It covers the most essential and expensive parts of your vehicle: the engine, transmission, and key drivetrain components. It's designed to give you peace of mind during the early ownership of a used vehicle: up to 6 months or 10,000 km, depending on your term.

What extra benefits do I get with Powertrain Protection Plus™?

A PPP comes with several added benefits to ease the inconvenience of a breakdown. It includes rental car coverage, 24/7 towing and roadside assistance, trip interruption support for meals and lodging, and even reimbursement if you lock yourself out or lose your keys.
